SERGEANT MAJOR, MARINE FORCES RESERVE

Ready, relevant and responsive are the hallmarks and cornerstones of the Marines and Sailors assigned to Marine Forces Reserve and Marine Forces North. I want to add another cornerstone that I want the Marines and Sailors to demonstrate: “adaptive balance.” Why “adaptive balance”? Lt. Gen. Mills and I realize that the forces of competing interests (employment, school, family), place an increased burden on your daily routine. I need you all to be innovative and adaptive as we confront the fiscal realities and the new normal that our Corps will face in 2014.

We are in a period of dynamic change that you are on the vanguard of experiencing. I need you to commit yourself daily to the ideals that inspired you to enlist in our institution – primarily, to keep a sense of mission, but just as important, to take care of your fellow Marine above all.

I need our NCOs to take back their Marine Corps by adhering to the traditions that have distinguished the Marine Corps as the world’s finest fighting force and demonstrating an endearment to our customs and courtesies by enforcing strict adherence by all Marines!

Our Corps’ leadership will continue to keep its faith in you – the cherished faith that we will provide the best trained, the best-equipped and the most ready fighting force our citizens demand. Commit yourself to ensuring that you remain ready and willing to support whatever mission you are tasked with and deploy in support of all taskings we are directed to fulfill.

I continually hear that we have challenges in front of us. I disagree. Where others see challenges, I only see opportunities to exploit and seize. We are the Marine Corps that has dominated every battlefield when faced with insurmountable odds.

Challenges? Drop that word like a bad habit and start exploiting the opportunities that await you!

I would like to see the wide-ranging implementation of the Marine Corps Leadership Development Program, particularly the initialization of the 6 Fs (Fidelity, Fighter, Fitness, Family, Finance, Future). All Marines need to incorporate the 6 Fs as an automatic mindset. If you make the 6 Fs a priority (leading, mentoring and inspiring), I guarantee that your service to country and Corps will be easy and fulfilling.

For Lt. Gen. Mills and I, the “other 28 days” remain a concern. Stay Marine not just during your weekend drills and annual training events – stay selflessly and zealously committed to our institution and to each other when you’re not wearing the uniform. I realize you have competing interests – your employment, school, family – but you all took an oath that places duty and obligation before competing interests.

I also need your direct involvement in the field of retention. As we resize the Force for the future, we need to retain our best Marines. We need to provide the American taxpayer an earned confidence in our ability to protect and defend “always” and “faithfully.”

I leave you with the following thoughts; your military profession is not just another “job” or “work.” In your military profession, you serve. You are here to selflessly serve your nation, your Corps, your family and each other. Continue to selflessly present yourself daily with your honor clean and your efforts geared to making our Corps better.

It is an honor to serve alongside you and it is an honor to be able to call myself your sergeant major. Thank you for all you have done and thank you in advance for all that you will achieve in the coming year as you exploit the opportunities that await you!

Lt. Gen. Richard P. Mills

COMMANDER, MARINE FORCES RESERVE

Since taking command in August, the Marines, Sailors and civilian Marines of Marine Forces Reserve have reinforced what I already knew to be true - MARFORRES is a tremendous asset to the Marine Corps. This year, the Reserve remained an integral part of the Total Force Marine Corps and continued to serve in an operationally-focused manner whether with active-component forces in Afghanistan, serving with Special-Purpose Marine Air-Ground Task Force Africa, strengthening global maritime partnerships with Africa Partnership Station, participating in the Unit Deployment Program or filling training and advisory roles with security cooperation teams in direct support of combatant commanders' requirements. Reservists from each of our major subordinate commands continue to maintain a high level of operational experience as they serve side-by-side with their active-component counterparts.

As the Total Force draw down continues through the end of Fiscal Year 2016, the Reserve stands well-poised to augment the capacity to support crisis-response operations and major contingency operations around the world. Additionally, as the Marine Corps and Marine Forces Reserve enter a post-Operation Enduring Freedom environment, we must reset our Force, and do so with less manpower and resources as 2014 will see the most severe effects of the budget cuts to date. We will overcome this challenge by prioritizing our finite resources and training to remain a ready, relevant, and responsive force. Drill time is valuable and must be aimed toward mission accomplishment.

As we move into this new year, I am calling for all MARFORRES personnel to stay true to the principles and values that are the cornerstone of the Marine Corps. Marine Forces Reserve will maintain good order and discipline within our basic routine. It is the responsibility of leaders at every level to adhere to and preserve the time-tested standards that make Marines unique and exceptional. By doing so, our Marines will reflect the image that our country expects.

This year, our highest priority for resources and support will be focused on our next-to-deploy forces to set conditions for mission success. We will provide these forces with the best-available training and equipment necessary to respond to missions across the range of military operations. We will also seek out opportunities to integrate and train as a Total Force in order to improve interoperability.

Finally, the way Reserve Marines balance their family responsibilities, civilian lives, and occupations - and still stay Marine - is inspiring. They do it with humility, without fanfare, and with a sense of pride and dedication that is consistent with the great sacrifices of Marines of every generation, and they will continue to do so for many years to come. Let's make 2014 another great year for our Corps. Semper Fidelis!

YEAR IN REVIEW

JANUARY 8

150 Marines and Sailors with Special-Purpose Marine Air-Ground Task Force Africa 13.2 deploy. The Marines were tasked with conducting theater security cooperation and limited crisis response missions in support of U.S. Africa Command.

Special-Purpose MAGTF Africa is composed of Marines from 2nd Battalion, 25th Marine Regiment out of Garden City, N.Y., and other Reserve units from across the country.

JANUARY 12

Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron (HMM) 764 transitioned into the Reserve's first Marine Medium Tiltrotor Squadron (VMM) 764. This is the first V-22 Osprey squadron in the Marine Corps Reserve.

The Osprey is the first aircraft designed from the ground up to meet the needs of the armed services. The tiltrotor aircraft takes off and lands like a helicopter. Once airborne, its engine nacelles can be rotated to convert the aircraft to a conventional airplane capable of high-speed, high-altitude flight.

FEBRUARY

6th Engineer Support Battalion, 4th Marine Logistics Group, was awarded the Major Gen. W.P.T. Hill award for best field mess. The award recognizes quality food service and culinary expertise.

The 4th Marine Aircraft Wing was named the winner of the Naval Aviation Readiness through Safety award and the Daedalians' Adm. James S. Russell Aviation Flight Safety award for 2012. The command flew more than 21,000 hours with no flight or ground-related mishaps.

MARCH 1

2nd Battalion, 23rd Marine Regiment received the 2012 Department of Defense Reserve Family Readiness Award.

The battalion maintained a high operational tempo while going above and beyond to keep family members informed, said Lt. Col. David Hutchison, the Inspector-Instructor for the unit.

The battalion became adept at using social media to keep Marines and their families informed.

MARCH 9

Marines with Headquarters Company, 25th Marine Regiment and 1st Battalion, 25th Marines conducted the first unmanned aerial vehicle flight for Reserve operators.

The training event sustained the Marines' knowledge of the procedures and techniques learned at the UAV operator's school.

The RQ-11B, or Raven B, is the only UAV currently used by the regiment. The hand-launched, remote-controlled aircraft is man-portable, allowing for easier intelligence gathering for units.

JUNE 14

Sgt. Maj. James E. Booker, former Marine Forces Reserve and Marine Forces North sergeant major, relinquished his post. Booker served as the sergeant major since September 2011 and said his time was fulfilling.

Booker is currently the NATO International Security Assistance Force and United States Forces-Afghanistan senior enlisted advisor for Gen. Joseph F. Dunford, commander of NATO ISAF and USFORAF. Sgt. Maj. Anthony A. Spadaro is the current sergeant major for MARFORRES and MARFORNORTH.

JUNE 14

Phyllis M. Taylor, a lifelong supporter of the Marine Corps and wife of the late veteran Patrick F. Taylor earned the title of "Honorary Marine."

Taylor was recognized for her dedication, support and extraordinary contribution to the Corps. Over the past 30 years, Taylor has participated in the Toys for Tots campaign, donated to multiple charities and provided more than 10.5 million dollars in scholarships, grants and donations to youth education.

AUGUST 28

Lt. Gen. Richard P. Mills assumed command of Marine Forces Reserve and Marine Forces North during a ceremony at the Marine Corps Support Facility New Orleans.

MARFORRES is composed of approximately 108,000 Marines and 160 training centers throughout the U.S., Guam and Puerto Rico. MARFORRES is the largest command in the Marine Corps. The previous commander of MARFORRES and MARFORNORTH was Lt. Gen. Steven A. Hummer, who held the post from August 2011 to June 2013.

OCTOBER 29

Lt. Gen. Richard P. Mills, commander of Marine Forces Reserve and Marine Forces North, signs an Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve statement of support.

The statement confirms Mills will join other employers nationwide in pledging to fully recognize, honor and enforce the Uniformed Services Employment and Re-Employment Act, or USERRA. The Act protects the job rights of individuals who leave employment positions to undertake military service. It also prohibits employers from discriminating against members of the uniformed services.

NOVEMBER 23

Sgt. Maj. Micheal P. Barrett, the 17th sergeant major of the Marine Corps, was the guest of honor at the Marine Forces Reserve and Marine Forces North celebration of the 238th U.S Marine Corps birthday ball at the Riverside Hilton Hotel, New Orleans.

After receiving a standing ovation for his remarks to the guests who attended, Barrett mingled with the Marines and their families, took photos and handed out coins to a lucky few.

M MISSION: The mission of Marine Forces Reserve is to augment and reinforce active Marine forces in time of war, national emergency or contingency operations, provide personnel and operational tempo relief for the active forces in peacetime, and provide service to the community. MARFORRES will be trained and educated to the highest levels, and provide rapid response when called upon. MARFORRES will be ever-ready to alleviate the intense personnel and operational tempo of active forces in peacetime.

“Our Reserve Marines are uniquely well-positioned to seamlessly integrate with the active component, to reinforce our service priorities and to provide a reservoir of capacity for future national emergencies.”

– Gen. James F. Amos, Commandant of the Marine Corps, 2013 Report to Congress

VALUE TO THE CORPS:

- MARFORRES provides options to active-component leaders and Combatant Commanders from support of disaster relief to providing strategic depth through sustained augmentation for major contingency operations.
- More than 80,000 Reservists have been activated or mobilized since Sept. 11, 2001. This operational tempo has built a momentum among our war fighters and a depth of experience throughout our ranks that is unprecedented in generations of Marine Corps Reservists.
- MARFORRES' continued engagement in theater security cooperation missions is a key enabler for the active component's focus on overseas contingency operations as MARFORRES participates in more than 20 large-scale theater security-cooperation exercises annually.

CIVILIAN MARINES:

Civilian Marines are critical enablers to Marine Forces Reserve's ability to meet service requirements. The civilian work force across MARFORRES continues its unwavering service and dedication to the Reserve even during these past few years of uncertainty concerning pay and entitlements. They are integral for continuity of operations and for ensuring family readiness across the Reserve force. They remain steadfast in their commitment to the ideal of the Marine Reserve and our Corps while facing the results of recent budgetary upheavals and furlough planning.

In 2013, 338 civilian employees augmented the Reserve forces in 160 locations across the U.S.

COLOR GUARDS

MARFORRES supported

The Marine Corps color guard is comprised of four Marines: the color sergeant, the Marine Corps color bearer and the left and right riflemen. The color guard includes the national colors, carried by the color sergeant, and the battle colors, which represent the unit. The streamers on the battle colors represent foreign unit awards as well as periods of service, expeditions and campaigns the unit has participated in. Color guards can be requested to display colors for an authorized event.

Community relations and community outreach programs are an essential part of the Marine Corps and accomplishing the mission. Not only is it vital in supporting recruiting goals, but it increases the trust and support of the American people in their Marine Corps.

Community outreach can vary in type of support. Some of the various ways Marines get involved are: color guards, static displays, speaking engagements, air shows, civic and public events and volunteer events. Marines also provide funeral honors to those who served their country. Marine Forces Reserve is heavily engaged in providing funeral honors due to the presence of 160 Reserve units dispersed throughout the country.

One of the most well-known community relations events for MARFORRES is Toys for Tots. In 2013 alone, MARFORRES units from across the country collected over 8.9 million toys for 4.1 million underprivileged children in the United States.

The impact of community outreach can be felt at the individual and unit levels as it enhances the morale of Marines and Sailors alike. Moreover, the communities served feel the enormous impacts of these efforts. The continued selfless actions of these Marines and Sailors from across the country enhance public awareness and increase the public's understanding and trust in the Marine Corps, as well as the Armed Forces as a whole.

KNOW (and understand) your options IN THE RESERVE

There is more to the Reserve than drilling once a month and annual training two weeks a year. Marines can serve part time with an active-duty unit, serve full-time in a unit and remain close to home, or be activated for periods of time. Although service must always satisfy the Marine Corps' needs, there is much more flexibility in Reserve duty than most people think.

*Contact a prior-service recruiter:

ACTIVE RESERVE

The Active Reserve program allows a Reserve Marine to serve on a full-time basis in billets that support the Reserve. This includes any Inspector-Instructor billet and any billet at the Marine Forces Reserve Headquarters. Marines who leave active duty and decide they miss the Corps, or drilling Reserve Marines who would like to work full-time may be good candidates for the AR program.

Marines involved with the AR program serve side-by-side with active Marines, work full-time, receive active-duty pay and benefits and can change duty stations. These Marines can also deploy and serve in additional billets such as recruiter and drill instructor. They also qualify for the same retirement benefits as active Marines.

To be eligible, active-component Marines must be within six months of their expiration of active service date, be eligible for reenlistment and be willing to serve in a billet required by the AR program. Marines in the Individual Ready Reserve and Selected Marine Corps Reserve programs may be eligible as well.

To find out more information, contact your local prior-service recruiter.

INDIVIDUAL READY RESERVE

If a Marine transitions from active duty after four years, he is still obligated to serve four additional years in the Individual Ready Reserve. The IRR is a pool of Reserve Marines who can be called to active duty in a time of crisis.

Marines in the IRR typically report one day a year at a "Mega Muster" to demonstrate they meet all requirements for physical appearance and uniforms. Marines who attend the muster also have the opportunity to update their contact information, learn about benefits and talk with prior-service recruiters. Marines in the IRR are eligible for reenlistment, promotion and continued service in the IRR.

ACTIVE DUTY OPERATIONAL SUPPORT

Sometimes the Corps needs Reserve Marines to perform active-duty tours of less than six months. The work can support a variety of activities ranging from military operations, to administrative work, to training. Most of the time, Marines on ADOS orders are there to bridge the gap when a unit's operational tempo is too high.

This is a good option for a Marine in the Individual Ready Reserve who may be taking a break from school or work and is interested in coming back to the Marine Corps. Marines on ADOS orders may even have the opportunity to extend their orders past six months if necessary.

SMCR

The Selected Marine Corps Reserve offers the most traditional form of Reserve duty. A typical unit in the SMCR has a designated drill weekend every month. Also, the unit typically performs its two weeks of annual training as a group; very little is done on an individual basis.

The SMCR is a good way for Reservists to experience camaraderie without being on active duty. The opportunity to deploy is still there, and SMCR units will usually complete their two-week annual training while participating in one of many exercises.

INDIVIDUAL MOBILIZATION AUGMENTEE

In the Individual Mobilization Augmentee program, a Reserve Marine who can fill a particular need with an active-duty unit performs Reserve duty with that unit.

The ability of the Marine to fill the need is the deciding factor, and it doesn't matter whether that ability is the result of military training, civilian education or work experience.

This is a good option for Marines who have busy schedules in their civilian lives because flexibility is a hallmark of an IMA duty tour.

Depending on the needs of the sponsoring unit, Reserve Marines in an IMA billet commonly perform their drills and annual training on schedules that create minimal friction.

IMA Marines have the option to perform all their drills and annual training consecutively. As long as the sponsoring unit accomplishes its mission and the Reserve Marine is meeting annual drill requirements, it doesn't matter whether the work is done on particular days, weeks or months.

RECOGNIZING our Marines

Marines are used to hearing that they are “on duty” 24 hours a day and 7 days a week. When they earn the title, Marines are expected to uphold the high standards of their Corps in all aspects of their lives.

Marines don’t do the things they do for recognition, awards, or inclusion in magazines. They do it because it’s who they are: professional warriors, fighting for the safety and freedom of the nation they protect.

The Marines on this page exemplify that mantra, fulfilling a commitment they made long ago.

From valor on the battlefield, to looking out for fellow Marines, and even protecting American citizens in their own communities, these Marines went above and beyond in an effort to live up to their title.

ON DUTY

1ST SGT. ANTHONY VELARDE

As the company gunnery sergeant for Company F, 2nd Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment, Velarde demonstrated heroism in an eight-hour firefight in Helmand Province, Afghanistan. Velarde received reports of roadside bombs and two pinned-down platoons. He quickly assembled and led a small reaction force. Velarde ordered his vehicle into the line of enemy fire to provide cover and suppress enemy fire. He enabled trapped platoons to withdraw by directing mortar fire toward the insurgents. Velarde was awarded a Bronze Star March 11, 2013.

SGT. MIGUELANGE MADRIGAL

As a radio chief for Supporting Arms Liaison Team G, 1st ANGLICO, I Marine Expeditionary Force Headquarters Group, Madrigal's team was attacked by insurgents while on patrol Feb. 15, 2010. After returning fire, Madrigal exposed himself to drag a fellow Marine that had been shot in the thigh to safety. Madrigal applied a tourniquet to the Marine's wound and coordinated a casualty evacuation for the Marine. Madrigal was awarded a Silver Star Jan. 31, 2013.

LANCE CPL. TAYLOR JANIS

Janis risked his life to pull an 8-year-old boy named Matthew from a badly damaged vehicle. The vehicle was involved in a head-on collision that claimed the lives of the boy's mother, brother and a family friend, in addition to putting his 2-year-old sister in critical condition. Although Janis was not on duty at the time, he was awarded a Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal Sept. 14, 2013.

LANCE CPL. SHAWN WASHINGTON

While cleaning his apartment, Washington heard a shooting occur from his second story window. He ran outside and applied the life-saving techniques he learned in boot camp. Washington applied direct pressure and a tourniquet to the victim's leg, preventing him from losing a significant amount of blood.

While in an off-duty status, Lance Cpl. Bryan Daniels, a motor vehicle operator with Headquarters Battery, 14th Marine Regiment, was traveling along a turnpike in Grand Prairie, Texas on Aug. 3, 2013, when a fully-loaded semi-trailer broke through an overpass guardrail and landed on the turnpike 55 feet below. The semi driver suffered the effects of low blood sugar and had become incapacitated. Without hesitation, Daniels rushed toward the burning truck in an attempt to rescue the driver. Using his bare hands to remove the broken windshield, Daniels made repeated attempts to pull the injured driver free, disregarding the rising flames and increasing danger of explosion. Because of the driver's diminished capacity, he could not comprehend Daniels was trying to help him. The driver weighed more than 300 pounds and was fighting against the rescue efforts. Finally, police ordered Daniels to stand down and removed him from the vehicle to prevent severe injuries.

While in an off-duty status, Marines with 3rd Force Reconnaissance Company, 4th Marine Division, rescued five anglers after their boat struck an offshore oil rig and sank off the Louisiana coast Oct. 23, 2013. The Marines are biologists with the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. By the time the Marines arrived on the scene, the anglers' 64-foot Viking had already sank and the men were on board an inflatable emergency raft.
