Lt. Gen. Richard P. Mills

COMMANDER, MARINE FORCES RESERVE

Last year, Marine Forces Reserve revalidated my total faith, trust and confidence in the ability of our Reservists to remain operationally ready and strategically oriented.

I am deeply impressed by the professionalism, competence and dedication of our magnificent Reservists and their families. You all continue to serve selflessly to protect and serve our great nation. The way you balance family responsibilities, professions, schools and careers while simultaneously keeping faith with the Marine Corps inspires me. The best of all, you do it without fanfare and with a sense of pride and dedication that is consistent with the great sacrifices of Marines from every generation.

2015 will be no different than 2014. In fact, 2015 will usher in grander opportunities to flex the operational readiness of Marine Forces Reserve. Recently, our 36th Commandant of the Marine Corps, General Joseph Dunford, published his Commandant's Planning Guidance. Clearly articulated by our Commandant is his expectation that "all Marines and all Marine units are physically and mentally ready to deploy to every clime and place, at any time." Further, the CMC pronounces, "There are no indications that the future will be any less challenging or that the demand for Marines will decrease." What does that mean for Marine Forces Reserve? Now, more than any other time in the future of our Reserve Component, the demand signal to be "ready now," to deploy to any contingency is the new reality.

One area where I need your constant attention is in the realm of force protection and cyber-awareness. Unfortunately, we are confronted daily with attacks by nefarious groups hoping to exploit vulnerabilities in our systems. Recently, Marines and their families have been the subject of probe attacks by individuals posing as salesmen. I cannot overemphasize my guidance on this critical matter. I task all Marines of this command to be vigilant and aware on Force Protection measures while at work and at their homes. Further, review the guidelines on how to protect your personal computer networks.

I remain awed by how Marine Forces Reserve supports our local communities. To your local communities, Marine Forces Reserve is the face of our Corps. Your support in ensuring strong and essential ties to our local communities demonstrates to the American public the unwavering faith our citizens place on our Corps. Whether it is a Toys for Tots event, a Color Guard, a volunteer event or the honor we demonstrate to our veterans when conducting a military funeral, your ability to balance the needs of our Corps with the needs of maintaining strong community ties is a force multiplier that will ensure a Marine Corps for the future.

Another area where I need your assistance is in the area of retention. Marines have a variety of ways to continue serving in our force. There are options that offer more flexibility or increased service opportunities. If you or your fellow Marines are considering leaving the force, talk to each other about all of the options that exist. The full spectrum of those options is detailed on pages 25 through 27 of this Almanac. Keep your Marines informed.

Marines, always remember one of our most critical enablers is the support to our families. The necessary support systems to assist you and your family remain available to you throughout the Force.

It is an honor to be able call myself the Commander of this incredible Force of Marines, Sailors and families. As we begin 2015, I look forward to seeing you all during my visits to our locations throughout our Nation. Until then, remain ready, relevant, and responsive; and above all stay committed to our Corps.

Sgt. Maj. Anthony A. Spadaro

SERGEANT MAJOR, MARINE FORCES RESERVE

For the last 18 months, the Commander and I have traveled throughout the force, meeting and engaging with the Marines, Sailors and families of Marine Forces Reserve. You have validated that you are not only operationally ready, but also mentally motivated to deploy and serve whenever and wherever you are needed.

During 2014, you proved that Marine Forces Reserve can serve and operate in a variety of operational conditions, deployments, scenarios and locations throughout the globe: from Japan, Korea, and the Republic of Georgia, to Senegal, the Horn of Africa, Mexico and Afghanistan. Through these deployments and significant annual training activities like the Integrated Training Exercise in Twentynine Palms, you continually demonstrate the ability to deploy rapidly when needed to whatever contingency.

Perhaps the best part of my travels throughout the force is meeting the Marines and families who prove, beyond any doubt, your level of commitment. Serving Marines like Sgt. Manuel Barnett with Deployment Processing Command/ Reserve Support Unit-East, Sgt. Gabriela Caceres and Cpl. Myha Shipp with the Ground Combat Element Integration Task Force, Sgts. Derrek Cardinale, Jose Cortez and Philip Kelly from 4th Tank Battalion, Sgt. Richard Salas of 6th Air Naval Gunfire Liaison Company, Lance Cpl. Dylan Hamby and Lance Cpl. Austin Jones with India Company 2nd Battalion, 23rd Marine Regiment and Lance Cpl. Rachel Robles with Maintenance Company, Combat Logistics Battalion 453 and family members like Mrs. Paula Archer, are contributing daily to ensure a level of service that is simply selfless!

As we start 2015, I want you to be mindful of two things. First, KEEP YOUR KIT PACKED. We live in a time of uncertainty. We live in a troubled geopolitical world that requires a level of diplomacy and warfighting that is best suited for the Marine Corps. Marine Forces Reserve has already demonstrated that we are an operational force. What does this mean for you? If you continue to serve with Marine Forces Reserve, your chance of deploying is probably a sure thing. Keeping your kit packed requires so much. You must be technically and tactically proficient, maintain all required training, all while balancing your civilian profession, your school and most importantly, your family. Keep your command informed on your comings and goings and make sure all proper documentation is maintained. Also, even in this age of fiscal austerity, there remains a plethora of services available to you and your families to assist in maintaining your readiness. First-round draft choices are the only Marines we will take when the deployment order is given.

Second, GO FIND YOU! Marine Forces Reserve is the face of the Marine Corps in your communities. From performing the honor of recognizing a fallen Marine at a funeral, to carrying the National Ensign at a parade, to ensuring a child's Christmas Day is brighter due to your direct and superlative efforts during the Toys for Tots campaign, your local communities sleep well at night knowing they have a stalwart and dedicated group of Marines supporting them. When you are out and about in your communities, do me a favor: go find someone as dedicated as you and direct them to your local Marine Corps Recruiter. This way, you "pay it forward" and continue and sustain our Corps. They are out there, go find them!

Lt. Gen. Mills and I know personally of your sacrifice and the amazing balancing act you perform in order to maintain your commitments. We can never thank you enough. However, we still need you to be ever mindful of the "other 28 days." Though you may not wear the uniform daily, let me remind you, YOU ALWAYS WEAR THE EAGLE, GLOBE AND ANCHOR. This is non-negotiable! When you raised your right hand and swore your oath of allegiance, you swore a blood oath that has been donated by others. If you call yourself a Marine, no matter what component you are affiliated with, act like a U.S. Marine in all you do – honorably, with the courage to always do the right thing no matter the circumstances and committed to your Corps, your families and always to each other.

Our Marine Corps enters 2015 with a new Commandant, a new Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps and with the same sense of being always ready. Marine Forces Reserve is the key warfighting component of the Total Force to ensure our Nation will be prepared to meet our foes and decisively engage the threat to emerge triumphantly. Here are your marching orders for 2015: Stay READY, continue to be RELEVANT and ensure you are RESPONSIVE when the mission is handed down. Continue to place the institution before self and remember to not only lead by example, live by example.

YEAR IN REVIEW

JANUARY 30

Joined by 32 other Reserve units, 4th Combat Engineer Battalion trained militaries across the African continent, gained knowledge and expanded its brotherhood of warriors. During its deployment, the unit traveled to Ghana, Mauritania, Uganda, Burundi, Senegal, Sierra Leone and Djibouti.

Teams provided assistance and training to the African nations in areas such as logistics, counterterrorism, communications, non-lethal weapons training, maritime security force assistance, military planning, small-unit leadership and vehicle maintenance.

FEBRUARY 18

The NBA Cares All-Star Day of Service was staffed by volunteers from local areas, visitors from across the country, and service members from all five branches of the U.S. military, as well as current and former NBA athletes.

NBA Cares, a community outreach initiative that focuses on community development, education, and health, hosts these days of service across the country in conjunction with major events.

MARCH 18

Marines with 2nd Battalion, 24th Marine Regiment participated in live-fire, combined-arms training March 15, to hone their skills in call-for-fire exercises alongside the 163rd Fighter Squadron, Indiana Air National Guard at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Fire-support teams, which assist each unit by calling out target coordinates, pulled the combined-arms portion of the training together. The Marines worked with Fire-support teams and integrated with members of 4th Air Naval Gunfire Liaison Company, Force Headquarters Group, Marine Forces Reserve, to call in simultaneous air, artillery and mortar fire.

APRIL 1-10

Fourth Air Naval Gunfire Liaison Company took part in exercise Joint Warrior 14, alongside the British 16th Air Assault Brigade, April 1-10.

During the exercise, the Marines and their British counterparts traded military concepts and training techniques to increase interoperability between the two nations.

While ANGLICO assisted with naval gunfire, its British counterparts shared views on the responsibilities in their rank structure and how it relates to the Marine Corps.

JUNE 10

The trait of being always ready has been a part of the Marine Corps' ethos for more than 238 years. 1st Battalion, 23rd Marine Regiment held true to this standard during its annual training, June 1-11.

As a Reserve unit, 1/23 typically meets one weekend a month and only two full weeks a year. Even though these Marines take advantage of the time they are given on drill weekends, they are limited to a two-day period. The importance and value of annual training cannot be overstated, especially since this opportunity only presents itself once a year.

JUNE 24

Innovative Readiness Training exercise Tropic Care 2014 was in full swing as service members from the Marine Corps, Army, Navy and Air Force cooperated to provide health care services at no cost to the people of Kauai, Hawaii, June 16–26.

The combat roles and missions of participating units are compatible with the type of support being provided to the civilian community. IRT initiatives are incidental to the military services' normal training. The goal is to provide realistic hands on training to enhance existing training programs, while assisting in domestic needs.

JULY 22

Lt. Gen. Ronald L. Bailey, deputy commandant of plans, policies and operations, presented Congressional Gold Medals to two of the original Montford Point Marines in attendance at the 49th annual Montford Point Marine Association Convention awards banquet, July 19.

The Montford Point Marine Association hosted this year's convention in New Orleans from July 16–20, bringing together hundreds of the organization's leaders from across the nation, including almost 30 of the original Montford Point Marines.

SEPTEMBER 8

The Marines with Personnel Retrieval and Processing Company, 4th Marine Logistics Group, trained to respond to natural disasters, with nations from all over the globe during exercise Immediate Response 2014.

Exercise Immediate Response 14 is a command-post and tactical field training exercise that involves more than 900 personnel primarily from the U.S., Slovenian and Croatian armed forces, with contingents from around Europe.

OCTOBER 27

The fiscal year 2015 Combat Marksmanship Reserve Coaches Course consisted of 92 Marines, and was held at the Marine Forces Reserve Marksmanship Training Unit at Weapons Training Battalion, Quantico, Va., Oct. 13–26.

The course primarily educates Marines in the Selected Marine Corps Reserve and the Individual Ready Reserve in marksmanship training techniques as well as regulations for running safe and efficient weapons qualification ranges.

NOVEMBER 12

Toys for Tots is a program the Marine Corps Reserve Foundation implements every year. The program makes sure children do not get left behind during the holidays. Some places Marines deliver toys to include Native American tribes and remote villages in Alaska.

President Barack Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama joined Marine Forces Reserve personnel to help sort toys into age-group appropriate bins.

Yellow Ribbon Program

If your tuition and costs exceed the amount you are receiving from the Post-9/11 GI Bill, you may qualify for the Yellow Ribbon Program.

Degree-granting institutions of higher learning participating in the Post-9/11 GI Bill Yellow Ribbon Program agree to make additional funds available for your education program without an additional charge to your GI Bill entitlement. These institutions voluntarily enter into a Yellow Ribbon Agreement with Veterans Affairs and choose the amount of tuition and fees that will be contributed. VA matches that amount and issues payments directly to the institution.

Only veterans entitled to the maximum benefit rate, as determined by service requirements, or their designated transferees may receive this funding. Active duty servicemembers and their spouses are not eligible for this program. Child transferees of active duty servicemembers may be eligible if the servicemember is qualified at the 100 percent rate.

Mission: The Post-9/11 GI Bill provides financial support for education and housing to individuals with at least 90 days of aggregate service after Sept. 10, 2001, or individuals discharged with a service-connected disability after 30 days. You must have received an honorable discharge to be eligible for the Post-9/11 GI Bill. This benefit provides up to 36 months of education benefits, and generally benefits are payable for 15 years following your release from active duty. The Post-9/11 GI Bill offers some service members the opportunity to transfer their GI Bill to their dependents.

KNOW (AND UNDERSTAND) your options IN THE RESERVE

There is more to the Reserve than drilling once a month and annual training two weeks a year. Marines can serve part time with an active-duty unit, serve full time in a unit and remain close to home, or be activated for periods of time. Although service must always satisfy the Marine Corps' needs, there is much more flexibility in Reserve duty than most people think.

*CONTACT A PRIOR-SERVICE RECRUITER:

ACTIVE RESERVE

The Active Reserve program allows a Marine to serve on a full-time basis in billets that support the Reserve component. This includes Inspector-Instructor billets and billets at the Marine Forces Reserve Headquarters. Marines who leave active duty and decide they miss the Corps, or drilling Reserve Marines who would like to work full-time may be good candidates for the AR program.

Marines involved with the AR program serve side-by-side with active component Marines, work full-time, receive active-duty pay and benefits, and can change duty stations. These Marines can deploy and serve in additional billets such as recruiter or drill instructor. They also qualify for the same retirement benefits as active duty Marines.

To be eligible, active-component Marines must be within six months of their expiration of active service date, be eligible for re-enlistment and be willing to serve in a billet required by the AR program. Marines in the Individual Ready Reserve and Selected Marine Corps Reserve programs may be eligible as well.

To find out more information, contact your local prior-service recruiter.

INDIVIDUAL READY RESERVE

If a Marine transitions from active duty after four years, he is still obligated to serve four additional years in the Individual Ready Reserve. The IRR is a pool of Reserve Marines who can be called to active duty in a time of crisis.

Marines in the IRR typically report one day a year at a "Mega Muster" to show they meet all requirements for physical appearance and uniforms. Marines who attend the muster also have the opportunity to update their contact information, learn about benefits and talk with prior-service recruiters. Marines in the IRR are eligible for reenlistment, promotion and continued service in the IRR.

ACTIVE DUTY OPERATIONAL SUPPORT

Sometimes the Corps needs Reserve Marines to perform active-duty tours of less than six months. The work can support a variety of activities ranging from military operations, to administrative work, to training. Most of the time, Marines on ADOS orders bridge the gap when a unit's operational tempo is higher than normal.

This is a good option for a Marine in the Individual Ready Reserve who may be taking a break from school or work and is interested in coming back to the Marine Corps. Marines on ADOS orders may even have the opportunity to extend their orders past six months if necessary.

SMCR

The Selected Marine Corps Reserve offers the most traditional form of Reserve duty. A typical unit in the SMCR has a designated drill weekend every month. The unit typically performs its two weeks of annual training as a group; very little is done on an individual basis.

The SMCR is a good way for Reserve Marines to experience camaraderie without being on active duty. The opportunity to deploy is still there, and SMCR units will usually complete their two-week annual training while participating in one of many exercises.

INDIVIDUAL MOBILIZATION AUGMENTEE

In the Individual Mobilization Augmentee program, a Reserve Marine fills a particular need with an active-duty unit by performing Reserve duty with that unit.

The ability of the Marine to fill the need is the deciding factor, and it doesn't matter whether that ability is the result of military training, civilian education or work experience.

This is a good option for Marines who have busy schedules in their civilian lives because flexibility is a hallmark of an IMA duty tour.

Depending on the needs of the sponsoring unit, Reserve Marines in IMA billets commonly perform their drills and annual training on schedules that create minimal friction.

IMA Marines have the option to perform all their drills and annual training consecutively. As long as the sponsoring unit accomplishes its mission and the Reserve Marine is meeting annual drill requirements, it doesn't matter whether the work is done on particular days, weeks or months.
